

ARIs and TRIs

These are standard indicators used by SDC in the field of migration and forced displacement.

Indicators	Applications	Main purposes
Aggregated Reference Indicators (ARIs)	Mandatory if a project, a Swiss cooperation or global programme addresses the concerned sub-objective of the IC Strategy or the thematic area.	Communication of aggregate results at corporate level, mainly for domestic accountability
Thematic Reference Indicators (TRIs)	Mandatory if a project, a Swiss cooperation or global programme addresses the concerned sub-objective of the IC Strategy or the thematic area.	Steering, thematic learning and thematic accountability
Context-specific Indicators	To be applied only if no ARI or TRI is covering the specific issues aimed at.	Steering, learning and accountability

1) Migration-related ARIs and TRIs

ARI 1 # of migrants and forcibly displaced persons benefiting from services that enable them to access safe and decent work opportunities.

ARI 2 # of migrants and forcibly displaced persons reached by interventions that improve their livelihoods and employability.

ARI 3 # of migrants and forcibly displaced persons who gained access to local health, education and other social services.

TRI 1 # of migrants and forcibly displaced people having new or better employment.

TRI 2 # of migrants and forcibly displaced people accessing low-cost digital remittance services and financial products.

TRI 3 # of migrants and forcibly displaced persons experiencing violence, exploitation and abuse who access protection / rehabilitation services.

TRI 4 # of global, regional and national dialogues on migration that engage different actors (Governments, cities, civil society, private sector).

TRI 5 Effectiveness of existing or newly introduced national policies and legal frameworks in the field of migration and forced displacement.

2) Other Thematic ARIs and TRIs and how they relate to Migration

In contexts affected by important migration movements or forced displacement, it is recommended to prioritize migrants and forcibly displaced people as LNOB category for other thematic ARIs and TRIs. Thereby it is suggested to use the term 'migrants and forcibly displaced' as a single definition to include all categories of people migrating.
