

Nutrition-sensitive RAS

Experiences and insights from SFRAS members

Virtual SFRAS meeting

May 20, 2021; 9.00-11.45am CET

Registration to the meeting

How can RAS – originally focusing mainly on agricultural productivity – support awareness, access and uptake of nutritious food by the rural and urban communities? This is the key question of the upcoming SFRAS meeting. A range of SFRAS members will share their experiences and learnings regarding nutrition-sensitive RAS.

After your registration you will receive the link to the ZOOM meeting.

For any technical questions please contact Gloria Spezzano, Learning and Innovation Advisor, Helvetas, who kindly supports the smooth technical implementation of this meeting.

Agenda

9.05	Opening of the virtual lobby
9.15	Welcome and setting the scene	Stefanie Kaegi , Senior Advisor Sustainable Agriculture, Helvetas
9.25	Global capacity needs assessment methodology - Integrating nutrition objectives into agricultural extension and advisory services programmes and policies	Rasheed Sulaiman , Director, Centre for Research on Innovation and Science Policy (CRISP); Board member of GFRAS
9.35	Insights from SFRAS members (each 10' input plus 10' discussion) <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Insights from the "Nutrition in Secondary Cities" Project inception phase in Bangladesh, Kenya, Rwanda (Swiss TPH, ETH Zürich, Sight and Life, Syngenta Foundation) 2. Nutrition sensitive RAS (Helvetas; Bangladesh and Laos) 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Capucine Musard, Project Associate Swiss TPH and Robert Berlin, Syngenta Foundation 2. David Bexte, Advisor Water Food Climate Helvetas
9.55	Panel with presenters
10.15	Coffee Break
10.30	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 3. Improve malnutrition via plant protein combination Q&A and discussion	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 3. Dr. Katrin Kopf, School of Agricultural, Forest and Food Sciences, BFH
10.50	Group work
11.20	Brain break
11.25	Feedback groups
11.35	News from members and next meeting
12.00	End of the meeting	